Forecast for Thursday 24 Feb 2022

Weather: Some bright or sunny intervals, but generally a good deal of cloud with snow showers, some heavy with hail and thunder, merging into longer spells of snow at times. The showers will turn to rain or sleet below around 200 m during the afternoon and evening.

Chance of cloud-free hill tops above 800m: 20%

Low cloud and visibility: Cloud base highly variable and rapidly changing in showers. Cloud fairly extensive, bases 500-700m, but suddenly falling onto lower slopes in snow showers with whiteout conditions and blowing snow.

Met Office Aberdeen Meteorologist's View

Heavy accumulations of snow will obscure paths and make it heavy going under foot, with whiteout conditions at times and drifting snow making navigation difficult. A largely fine day will follow on Friday.

Forecast for Friday 25 Feb 2022

Weather: Snow showers will die out overnight, then a fine day will follow with some lengthy sunny spells during the morning. High clouds will spread from the west during the afternoon with clouds lowering to give some patchy light rain during the evening, with snow above around 800-1000 m.

Maximum wind: Northwest backing South, 10-15 mph, increasing 40 mph gust 60 mph after dusk.

Chance of cloud-free hill tops above 800m: 90 % becoming 10% during the evening

Low cloud and visibility: Patchy cloud bases around 600 m during the early hours, lowering at times in the showers. Excellent visibility through the day with little if any hill fog. Cloud becoming extensive with base around 600 m during the evening with some patches down to 400 m.

Temperature: Glens: Minus 2C rising to plus 6C
At 800m: Minus 5C rising to plus 1C later
Freezing level: surface rising to 900 m later
